In response to the above for East Devon.

We have lived in Lypstone in a former council house for over 20 years. Our children have lived in Exmouth and were brought up in Lypstone having attended the local primary school. During that time many houses have been built surrounding our house and either are well above the cost of an affordable house for our children or when applying for a simple one bedroom house we were told that my daughter did not meet the criteria even though she has a full time well paid job and lived and works locally.

How can this be right that our children cannot buy a house locally and will end up living elsewhere? We need more affordable houses but not to the detriment of our beautiful countryside, small developments are the way forward with the appropriate infrastructure, schools and health providers.

Kind regards,
Sharon Ousley
