

East Devon District Council - Review of Polling Districts and Polling Places 2023

Current polling arrangements, (Acting) Returning Officer comments and proposed changes

1 Overview

Since the last review of polling districts and polling places in East Devon in 2019, all polling stations have been regularly appraised and reflect the changes that have occurred within the intervening years. East Devon Council takes an approach to ensure consistency and certainty for the electorate by only making changes to polling districts and polling stations where necessary.

Some changes have been proposed to improve the voter experience in the polling station by reducing the maximum number of potential voters at a polling station reducing the need for queues. Some changes to polling districts are a consequence of new building developments or geographical changes to the electoral landscape over the last 4 years.

Comments are welcomed on the polling district and polling place review. A summary of the review split by East Devon is explained below. Comments are welcomed on any polling district boundaries and suggestions are welcomed for potential polling stations.

2 Definitions

Polling Districts

A polling district is the area created by the division of a parliamentary constituency into smaller parts. A polling district will not breach parish/parish ward or unitary electoral boundaries.

Polling Places

A polling place is the geographical area in which a polling station is located. It must be designated so that polling stations are within reach of electors across a polling district.

Polling stations

A polling station is the venue or location in which voting takes place, for example a Village Hall.

Parliamentary Constituency

A parliamentary boundary review has been approved by parliament in 2023 effective for the next Parliamentary elections which must be held by January 2025.

Electorate figures provided are as at the register published 1 January 2024.
