Subject: Draft local plan Nov 22 - another 258 homes in Brixington area of Exmouth

Categories: Reg.18 consultation

On this occasion I find myself surprisingly in tune with our MP Simon Jupp - I quote 'the new EDDC Local Plan is woefully unimaginative because it just dumps most of the new houses in the west of the region. It isn't a proper plan to help people stay in their own communities, reduce travel to help the environment or keep families close together. This is less of a plan and more a missed opportunity '.

What a disappointment for the residents of Exmouth. Seemingly a very lazy proposal. No mention of an already oversubscribed secondary school, no mention of an often promised link road and now the introduction of a possible 500 more cars on to an already overburdened road network.

I imagine I am wasting my time writing this email. Residents views are regularly asked for and then ignored. I wonder if you are able to give me any examples of a consultation where the council changed its mind. Just a thought.
